COMMUTER SERIES

CONCEPT CREATION

Designers at OtterBox take into account the features and form of the device itself and use it as a foundation upon which to add their interpretive styling.

The form, design cues and user interface of the Lumia 900 were aspects OtterBox engineers wanted to carry through the case, so they complement the feel of the phone.

Incorporating innovative engineering, these cases offer intuitive full-functionality of the device while providing great protection — a true marriage of form and function.

DEFENDER SERIES

CASE FEATURES

CASE STYLING

A more bold approach was applied to the styling and use of texture on our Defender Series case. Textured rectangular shapes were used on the sides of the case to express a rugged look and bring an ergonomic feel when in use.

CASE STYLING

Our in-house industrial designers use textures and apply stylish finishes to fine tune the look and feel of each case. The graphic styling on the back of the commuter series was influenced by the Windows UI to complete the user experience in and out.
